Arrowhead-Shoemaker Dairy. In 1940, on a modest scale, the Shoemaker Dairies re-entered the retail field in Bridgeton merging with the retail distribution routes of Arrowhead Farms, whose registered Guernsey breeding establishment was the best known in this area and whose raw milk products gained wide public acceptance. The farms continued to supply the deluxe premium "A" pasteurized milk to their customers.

David Bowen House
(1770)

This colonial brick house in the Village of Roadstown was built in 1770 by David Bowen, the last royal sheriff of Cumberland County and a member of the Bowen Family who settled at Bowentown more than two centuries ago. Eventually, Charles Ware (1828-1879), grandson of Maskell Ware, patriarch of the Ware chairmaker family industry, owned the home and set up a chairmaking shop on the premises.

Minerva Fire Pumper.

The Minerva Fire Company utilized a hand pumper fire engine for fire protection from 1866 until the 1887 when it was replaced with a steam pumper fire engine.

Fire Gong.

Fire rings were made from steam locomotive metal tires that were originally around the drive wheels of the locomotive. When the train wheel tires wore out and were replaced, instead of scrapping the wheel, they recycled it at the local fire department to be used as an alarm. A hammer was used to strike the tire to alert people that there was a fire.

Shoppes at Dragon Village.

This quaint country village of unique shops began in 1976 and was then known as Dutch Neck Village. From 1982 to 2008 visitors were able to spend a full day at the village. By spending a day at Dutch Neck Village, visitors could avoid the hustle and bustle of city and mall shopping while enjoying the thrill of finding that unique gift for that special someone. After its sale, the village continued to operate and feature events until it closed in 2013. Dutch Neck was later purchased by the Pessalano family in December of 2017 and renamed the Shoppes at Dragon Village. The Pessalanos aim to restore the property to its original splendor.
